Re: IR17-15 – Dashboard Complement and Job Bid Management Tool

Dear Mr. Brooks:

This letter is in response to the Union's April 21 Request for Information (RFI) regarding the Dashboard Complement and Job Bid Management tool. This request has been identified as IR17-15. Please include this tracking number in future correspondence regarding this RFI. The Union's requests have been restated below, followed by the response.

1. "Does the Article 37.3.A.1 language of the 2010 Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) that was renewed in the 2015 CBA, require the Postal Service to use 'work hours' instead of 'earned hours' as it pertains to newly established and vacant Clerk Craft duty assignments?"

   RESPONSE: Earned work hours are determined at the facility level based on a number of factors including volume and productivity. The earned work hours are then equated to a number of positions earned, also referenced as "earned complement". The Postal Service generally makes staffing determinations based on operational need, in conjunction with the facility's earned complement. Actual work hours should be a direct result of staffing determinations. The language of Article 37.3.A.1 states, "Every effort will be made to create desirable duty assignments from all available work hours for career employees to bid." If staffing is properly aligned with the earned complement, actual work hours and earned work hours should be relatively equal.

2. "How does the reverting and abolishment of duty assignments, and the excessing of clerks as a result of models/tools, not directly affect wages, hours and working condition?"

   RESPONSE: The reversion or abolishment of duty assignments, and any necessary excessing are done in accordance with the collective bargaining agreement. The creation of the dashboard complement and the job bid management applications do not include any new staffing models or tools. They are simply a mechanism by which the field can access current data regarding staffing and/or complement.

The Postal Service has not changed how staffing or earned complement is determined; therefore, usage of the subject applications does not directly relate to wages, hours, or working conditions of bargaining unit employees.

If you have any questions, please contact Shannon Richardson at extension 5842.

Sincerely,

Rickey R. Dean
